YEAR'S REPORT SHOWS LOSS OF $140,000 TO BANK OF CHINA

Shareholders Voice Complaints Against Employes

WRANGLE ENSUES

Motion For Appointment Of Committee Is Lost

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, May 23.—At the annual meeting of shareholders of the Bank of China yesterday afternoon, the Governor, Mr. Feng Kuo-kung, presiding, in presenting the report, said that the year's operations had resulted in a net loss of $140,000, the expenditure of the head office and the various branches amounting to $5,000,000.

Without allowing the Governor to conclude his report, several shareholders interjected with questions regarding the alleged unsatisfactory services rendered by bank officials.

A motion was then introduced to appoint a committee to examine the accounts and during the ensuing debate a shareholder contended that those shareholders who were members of the banking staff were not qualified for election to this committee.

The discussion warming up, the banking staff protested vigorously against the forfeiture of their privileges as shareholders owing to their employment by the bank.

Mr. Lin Wen-yuan suggested referring the matter to the Supreme Court, but this suggestion found few supporters.

The meeting was finally adjourned without any decision being arrived at.

MANCHURIA PREPARES TO TAKE POWER FROM CHANG

Hostile Groups Gain Ascendency During Absence

IN CHINWANGTAO

Fengtien General Plans To Entrench South Of Wall

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, May 23.—According to a foreign telegram from Chinwangtao, General Chang Tso-lin, with 50,000 artillery and infantry and 10,000 cavalry, is still there. General Chang's Chief of Staff recently informed a foreigner that General Chang intends to remain there and to entrench if the Chihli forces should approach. The Staff officer explained that General Chang had evacuated Luanchow because he did not desire to infringe on treaties or to interrupt coal transportation.

While General Chang Tso-lin is thus hanging on to the borders of Chihli, events sinister towards him appear to be shaping in Manchuria, where the Provincial Assemblies are engaged in drafting a provincial constitution on the Southern lines. The members of the Assemblies intend to offer General Chang the post of Commander-in-Chief of the Three Eastern Provinces under provincial officials appointed by the people. Thus citizen Chang Tso-lin would occupy a military post not entitling him to interfere with politics, but Peking officials say that as General Chang is firstly a politician and lastly a soldier this position is not likely to meet with his approval. Furthermore, during his absence from Fengtien, hostile groups are arising and gaining strength daily.

Chen Kwang-yuen, Tuchun of Kiangsi, has wired the Peking Government that Dr. Sun Yat-sen has invaded his province by three routes, according to the Chinese press.

The Tuchun has wired Peking for men and money to combat the Northern expeditionary forces on three different occasions without success, according to the story.

1,500 ARRESTED IN ERIN AFTER MURDER OF M.P.

Member Of Ulster Parliamen Shot Down In Street

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 23.—The North Irish authorities organised a round-up in six counties of Ulster, which took place between midnight and four o'clock this morning. The arrangements were so secret and complete that 1,500 Irish Republican Army officers and men were arrested, many of whom were in bed. They were taken off in motor-trucks to Belfast and other centers.

London, May 22.—Mr. Twaddell, a member of the Ulster Parliament, was shot whilst walking in the street in Belfast and later succumbed to his wounds.

(China Press Service)

Belfast, May 23.—Mr. W. J. Twaddell of the Ulster parliament has been shot dead. Two men emptied seven shots into his body at a range of three feet and then escaped.

Sir James Craig called a special meeting of the cabinet and law officers following the murder declaring that Ulster must have "just retribution." The weekend deaths total 14.

The manifesto calling a meeting said that Twaddell had been murdered for loyalty to empire and devotion to the cause of Ulster.

London, May 23.—The papers declare that the Irish factions agreement last Saturday to hold elections in June amounts to a surrender of Michael Collins to the will of De Valera in agreeing to a coalition cabinet. The papers say that the elections will only be employed to form strong demands and that independence will soon follow.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 22.—Mr. Winston Churchill stated in the House of Commons today that the agreement signed at Dublin on Saturday appeared to raise very serious issues, affecting not merely the character and validity of the forthcoming election but also the Treaty itself.

The Government therefore, he said, had invited the Irish cosignatories of the Treaty to come to London to discuss the matter with the British signatories. It is expected that the conference will be held during the week-end.

With regard to the North of Ireland Government Mr. Churchill declared that he was confident that the Northern Parliament would continue to grapple with the serious task of restoring and maintaining order, and added that four additional battalions had been most opportunely landed in Ulster on May 20, raising the strength of the Imperial forces in Ireland to nineteen battalions, and that any further reinforcements demanded by the Northern Government would be sent.

CONCERT TO AID RUSSIAN FAMINE FUND ANNOUNCED

Prominent Local Artists To Give Program June 1 At Town Hall

To provide aid for Russian sufferers dying by thousands from famine through the expanse of the once-productive Volga region a Grand Concert is to be given at the Town Hall on the evening of June 1 by Madame Tcherkasskaya, who is well-known to Shanghai's music-loving world. She is to be assisted by Mr. N. M. Bravin, baritone and by Professor Yasser at the piano. Fifty percent of the proceeds of the concert will be given to the American Red Cross for its Russian famine relief fund.

Reports from the famine areas of the Volga tell that under the lash of starvation the people are resorting to means of self-preservation hitherto unheard of. Mothers sacrifice their own children to provide food for surviving children, it is stated, and in some villages the practice of slaughtering one individual to provide food for others by drawing lots has become commonplace and is no longer prosecuted as an offense by the government.

Though a marvellous work of relief is being carried out by the American and British Red Cross organisations it is impossible for these agencies to cope with more than a small part of the distress of a great population.

Russ Relief Drive Closing On Friday

Chinese Committee Will Send Delegate To Siberia

A., when the total amount of money raised will be announced. Mr. C. C. Nieh, chairman of the executive committee, and Mr. S. K. Tsao, chairman of the secretariat, will both report on the campaign.

Chao Shih-yin, the official treasurer, will announce the total receipts for the campaign. At a joint meeting of the committeemen and secretaries on Monday night, it was decided to elect Mr. Wang Pao-chen, an ex-Parliamentarian, to proceed to Siberia in company with another to be elected by the local merchants and students, to distribute the ration to be purchased with the proceeds.

No Settlement Yet Of Pootung Strike

Employers of the Nikka Cotton Mill at Pootung have appealed to the Pootung police to assist in bringing the 3,000 striking workers back to work, it was stated yesterday. The chief of the Pootung police replied that the company might call upon him to preserve order but that he would not interfere otherwise.

There were no indications of a settlement yesterday though the workers held several meetings. The Chinese police have taken one man into custody for distributing circulars inciting employes to strike.

H. A. GILBERT GETS PRISON SENTENCE ON THEFT CHARGE

Accused Ordered Goods Sent Home C.O.D., Took Them Then Vanished

H. A. Gilbert, who bought $325 worth of goods at the store of Weeks and Company and avoided paying for them by deceiving a shroff last January, was sentenced to three months imprisonment on a charge of larceny yesterday by Magistrate G. W. King in the British Police Court. Gilbert had offered the contention that he was not guilty of any criminal offense and that the company could proceed against him for the amount due by instituting civil action.

Mr. S. H. McKean conducted the prosecution and various salespeople from the store reviewed the circumstances of the sales made to Gilbert who asked that the things he purchased be sent to his boarding house at 42 Boone Road to be paid for on delivery.

When the shroff arrived with the goods Gilbert asked the man to wait on the excuse that his wife was out at the time with his check book. He said he would pay for the goods on her return and asked the shroff to wait in the kitchen, which he did leaving the goods in Gilbert's room. Some hours elapsed and it was then discovered that both Gilbert and the goods had vanished.

Some time later Weeks and Company received a letter from Gilbert promising to pay the sum due for the goods, but no settlement ever was made. Recently it was learned that Gilbert had returned to Shanghai from Amoy and he was then taken into custody at 5 Jukong Road by Detective Sergeant Tinkler and Detective Sergeant Conduit of the Hongkew station.

CHIHLI ARMY IS GIVEN CHANCE FOR EDUCATION

System Adopted By Li Chen-ling Compels Officers And Men To Study

(China Press Correspondence)

Loyang, May 20.—Despite the flood of information from various sources regarding the victorious Chihli Army, very little has been given out on the thorough and systematic way in which the troops of the Chihli army are being educated under the direction of General Li Chen-ling, Chief of the Bureau of Military Education, who has since 1920 adopted an efficient system of schooling for officers and men of the army, which brought such splendid results during the recent internecine warfare.

Under the new system, compulsory education is given to all middle class and lower commissioned officers and men. From the regimental commander to the captain of a company, each must attend at least one class every day besides their regular military drill or executive work. The strategy of some of the world's greatest combats is studied.

Two classes in moral education are given each day to officers below the rank of a captain. The cadets must devote considerable time in the theoretical study of gun firing and maneuvering.

For the high military officers a Bureau of Research has been established. The most up-to-date courses in military education are given. A time limit is placed on every officer who participates in the research work to complete his course and he returns to his original office after graduation.

Besides, there are the student battalion, the battalion of physical culture, the cadets battalion and the battalion of youth, each having its special function and training as the name indicates.

General Li is a native of Funglai, Shantung, from which city General Wu Pei-fu also hails. He was prior to being appointed to the present position tutor to General Wu Pei-fu himself. He was one of the early graduates of the Cadets' Military College of Tokio and served as professor at the Military College of Peking upon his graduation. He reads and writes in several foreign languages, thereby gaining an insight into the intricate military organisations of the leading military powers. Not only is he well-versed in the theoretical aspects of military education, but also an experienced fighter, excelling in marksmanship and maneuvering.

DEATH LIST OF ILL FATED EGYPT IS FIXED AT 102

Two American Missionaries Lost In Disaster

(Reuter's Service)

Brest, May 23.—The Mayor and the British and American Consuls were present at the solemn service of the burial of the bodies picked up after the sinking of the Egypt.

Details of the disaster, as unfolded, make a story of poignancy combined with inspiring examples of heroism. A man, who placed his wife, child and baby in a boat, was appalled to see one rope break, precipitating the occupants into the sea, after which the second rope snapped and the boat fell on those who had been shaken out. His wife and children were lost but the man was saved.

The ship's printer, who was unable to swim, surrendered his lifebelt to a woman and he himself perished. The senior wireless operator died while sending out S.O.S. calls.

The mystery of a comparatively small vessel inflicting damage capable of sinking the Egypt in twenty minutes is explained by the fact that the Seine was specially constructed for service in the ice-strewn Northern Seas.

A wireless query sent broadcast yesterday, seeking news of further survivors, did not yield any response.

The death roll is now officially given as 16 passengers and 86 of the crew.

(China Press Service)

Boston, May 23.—Mrs. M. L. Sibley of Toledo, Ohio, and Miss V. M. Boyer of Aspinwall, Pennsylvania, were among those lost in the Egypt disaster. They were en route to India. The former was a missionary and the latter a teacher at a school for missionaries' children.

Brest, May 23.—The latest official figures with regard to the Egypt disaster show 98 missing and 242 saved.

The purser of the Egypt said that the ship floated only 20 minutes after the crash. He declared that she was not moving but was lying to owing to the fog and was continually sounding her whistle.

Passengers said that one life-boat rope broke while in the process of lowering. They said that it was impossible to launch many boats.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 22.—Thirty out of the eighty missing members of the crew of the Egypt are Europeans.

Chinese Press Telegrams On The Situation

The evacuation of the Fengtien troops from Luanchow is ascribed to two reasons; shortage of provisions on the part of Chang Tso-lin and the contemplated attack of the Chihli troops from the rear of Luanchow.

An attempt was made to persuade the Fengtien soldiers to put up a stubborn fight or resistance at Luanchow. They were told that Paoting was being attacked by the troops of Tang Yu-lin, that Chao Chieh had recaptured Honan, and that it would be necessary for the Chihli troops to be withdrawn to save Paoting in which case the Fengtien troops stationed at Luanchow would be in a position to wage an attack on the Chihli troops from the rear. The Fengtien troops, however, were all inclined to return to Fengtien, declaring that the Chihli troops instead of withdrawing had arrived at Shaho.

Chang Tso-lin's troops are being mobilised at Kinchow which has been made the headquarters of the Fengtien forces. Provincial self-government on the principle of confederated rule will soon be declared for Manchuria, they are told.

It is reported that the Fengtien troops on this side of the Wall are now less than one division. The vanguards of the Chihli troops are now stationed at Kaiping and Leichuang.

A private telegram has been sent by Hsu Shih-chang to Chang Tso-lin, saying that there is a rumor that the forces of the Far Eastern Russian Republic are trying to lay their hands on the Chinese Eastern Railway and that Chang Tso-lin would be able to redeem his demerits by frustrating this attempt.

The Chihli party has sent two aeroplanes to the Three Eastern Provinces for the distribution of circulars containing the announcement that Chang Tso-lin has already been deprived of his offices. If, in opposition to the mandate announcing his dismissal, he declares the independence of Manchuria, such a step will be considered as rebellion, say the leaflets.

The mandate announcing the personnel of the new Wang Shih-chen cabinet would be promulgated on the eve of the Dragon Boat Festival. It is proposed to offer the portfolio of the Minister of Education to Liang Chi-chao; and, in case Liang does not accept the offer, Fan Yuan-lien, former Minister of Education, will be asked to re-enter the cabinet in the same capacity.

Interviewed by a foreign correspondent and asked to state the reasons for the delay in reorganising the cabinet, Wang Shih-chen, the Premier-to-be, had this to say: "It is not possible to devise means for settling the parliamentary problem in a way that will be equally satisfactory to the old M.P.'s and the new M.P.'s. Either the one or the other will be disappointed."

A circular telegram has been promulated by the Government prohibiting the recruiting of new troops.

Chang Hsun has telegraphed to Li Lieh-chun, Commander of the vanguard of the Punitive Expedition, asking him to capture Shokwan as soon as possible and offering his own support of the campaign.

Interviewed at Huichow, General Chen Chiung-ming said that while he was desirous of witnessing the triumphant advance of the Punitive Expedition, he would not be prepared to participate in that expedition because of the pact signed by Kwangtung and Kiangsi for the purpose of maintaining a common peace.

Ex-President Li Yuan-hung will shortly leave Tientsin for Hupeh where he will witness the ceremony of the unveiling of the brass statue of himself.

Some 120 curios belonging to Yeh Kung-cho and 280 pieces of furniture made of red sandal-wood belonging to Chang Ching-yao, ex-Tuchun of Hunan, have been seized and sent to Paoting. General Wu Pei-fu proposes to devote the proceeds of the sale of these articles to famine relief.

Movie Reforms Mooted In Australia

Sydney, (by mail).—Many reforms regarding the exhibition of motion pictures, with special regard to the attendance of children at the performances, were recommended today in an official report by the Victorian Council of Education. One of the recommendations proposed the prohibition of any picture encouraging disloyalty.

The total attendance at the 808 picture theaters in Australia for the year ending June 30, 1920 was 66,000,000, out of a total attendance of 94,000,000 at all amusements, the report stated. During the current year the record showed an average attendance of 2,000,000 weekly at film theaters, Australia has a picture show for every 6250 of population, the United States has one for every 6000, and Great Britian has one for every 5890, the report said.

Examination of 14 Melbourne schools showed that 45 percent of the children attended film exhibitions more than once a week, 11 percent attended twice a week and 60 percent went once or oftener a week. Of these, 20 percent reached home after the rest of the family had retired, 37 percent attending at night while 40 percent attended in the afternoon, with 25 percent attending both day and night. The committee expressed the opinion that no child under 15 years of age should be allowed to attend after 6:30 p.m. on any school day.

Even more drastic action has been proposed in New South Wales where a district magistrate, dealing with a number of youthful defendants, was requested by the prosecutor, a representative of the school department and by the Inspector of the State Children Relief Department, to order that the offenders should be prevented from attending picture shows for some time. The prosecutor contended that attendance at picture theaters undoubtedly had had a bad influence upon the children. The court did not accede to the request, pointing out that he could not impose such a sentence legally.

U. S. Now Food Base Of W. Europe

(China Press Service)

Washington, (by mail).—The transference of the food base of Western Europe to the United States through the failure of Russia as an export country is given as the cause of the enormous increase in the agricultural exports of the United States, in a statement issued recently by the Department of Commerce. These exports in 1921 reached the largest volume in the history of the United States, exceeding those of 1920 by nearly 4,000,000 tons.

During the last year agricultural exports were more than 20,000,000 tons, for which $2,000,000,000 was received, in contrast to 16,500,000 tons, worth $3,000,000,000, in 1920, and 10,500,000 tons, valued at $1,000,000,000, in 1913. Grain was the principal agricultural commodity exported in 1921, its total amounting to 16,000,000,000 tons, in contrast to 12,000,000 tons in 1920 and 6,000,000 in 1913.

"The cause of our enormous increase in food exports since 1913," the department said, "does not lie so much in decreased production in western and central Europe—for the area is rapidly recovering its normal production. The major cause of our increased market abroad is the total failure of Russia as a food export country, Russia formerly exported 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 tons of food, all of which has ceased."

MUSEUM EXPERT REPORTS FOSSIL FINDS IN CHINA

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 20.—Dr. Black has recently returned from a trip to Urga which he made as a guest of the Third Asiatic Expedition of the American Museum of National History. He reports that the Expedition left Kalgan on April 21 and from the outset has been singularly successful, especially in the realm of geology and paleontology.

An extensive cretaceous deposit has been discovered and for the first time in Eastern Asia fossil remains of Dinosaurs have been found—of these both the duck-billed herbivorous type and carnivorous forms have been identified by Dr. Granger.

Eocene, Oligocene and Miocene deposits of tertiary time have also been located and numerous fossil mamalian remains have been recovered, among which are fragments of an animal closely related to if not identical with the Foster Cooper giant Baluchi therium, the largest land mammal yet known.

Professor Berkey and Dr. Morris have been able to make further observations on the geology of the area thus far traversed which will be of great importance in throwing light upon obscure questions of the continental structure of Eastern Asia. Mr. Shackelford, who is the motion picture historian of the Expedition, has had unusual opportunities to record events of interest and for the first time permission has been granted to photograph the great spring festival of the Mytr in Urga in all its magnificent detail.

The difficulties of transport under all conditions of weather have not been few but so far the cars under supervision of Mr. Colgate have stood up well under the severe strain of heavy loads and hard travel.

Chapei Debenture Issue Is Offered; For Road Building

The campaign for subscription of the first half of a Tls. 200,000 issue of Chapei Public Works debentures was opened yesterday under the direction of Mr. Hsu Jon-ching, director of the Public Works Department for Northern Shanghai. The entire proceeds of the issue will be devoted to the constructions of two roads in Chapei: the Chung Hsin Road, measuring 10,330 feet, at a cost of Tls. 145,400, and the Kwang Fu Road, measuring 5,169 feet, at a cost of Tls. 146,000.

The first half is to be subscribed before the end of June, 1922 and the remainder before the end of December, 1922. The debentures will bear interest at 10 percent for annum, redeemable in five years, drawing to take place each year in July when one-fifth of the entire amounts together with interest is to be paid.

The security is the surplus on the various forms of taxes in Northern Shanghai.

Korean Red Cross Appeals For Funds To Relieve Starving

There is great privation in these districts and the Society is endeavoring to obtain money for the purchase of food and clothing and seed for the farmers to plant. Anyone wishing to contribute may remit funds to the Rev. G. F. Fitch, 61 Range Road.

TOUGHEST UMPIRE IN THE LEAGUE

Gink Thought An Axe And A Hammer Were A Knife And Fork

BY "BUGS" BAER

Yes, Sir:

Everybody knows that Gink Fowler was an omelet full of bad eggs. I saw him umpire a game between Singer's Midgets and the Bearded Ladies during the Old Home Week at the Roughtown Day Nursery.

The first inning was still raw and chilly when Gink called Harry Wills out because of darkness. Wills then challenged Dempsey. Jack refused. Gink refused to meet the winner. Jim Savage refused to referee the cancelled battle.

Yours garbagely,

You're correct only in your dates. Don't enclose stamp for answer because there won't be none. Gink's life was not one of refuse. He accepted everything in sight and paged the rest.

He would have money right now if the Moose hadn't ribbed him for the four-hoss parlay on the Apocalypse.

The race took place on Armour and Co.'s Bowie branch. It was a steeplechase.

That means if you win, you've got to chase the bookie up a steeple to collect your money.

Four times around the stockyards and into the sausage grinder. It was for the Abattoir stakes with sixteen added delicatessen starters.

Davenport was the favorite to fold up in the stretch. Deerfoot was well named after a sausage. The handwriting on the wall said: Watch your hat and overcoat.

The Moose went out in the dawn's oily light and clocked the waltzing mice with a calendar. Every time they came by, he knew another day was here with its new hopes and fears. Gink had the radio on Milkman.

That's where he scorched his gate receipts. Milkmen work out in the morning, but sleep in the afternoon. Incidentally, Milkman was steered by a crooked kewpie who got writer's cramps from forging checks.

We are not here to steam up controversies, but the man who says Gink Fowler wasn't champion is barricading himself behind his false teeth. Gink feared no man, sick or ill.

His record is on every postage stamp in the Dead Letter Office. Cancelled.

They discovered that The Moose was playing with loaded hossshoes when he won the open quoit champion boat of America.

He was a great fighter, but wearing rubber boots to his friend's funerals slowed him up.

RUTH GETS INTO GAME 12 HOMERS BEHIND 1921 MARK

New York, May 23.—Babe Ruth, once more free to murder the baseball after his months of suspension which expired on May 20, dropped back into his 1921 form by slamming a homer in yesterday's game with St. Louis, his second game of the season.

One man was on base and Ruth's homer was the winning stroke of the game which dragged out for 13 innings. Vangilliier was pitching for St. Louis.

Ruth in registering his first home run of the season against St. Louis starts the 1922 season just a dozen homers behind his record for 1921. Up until May 23 of last year the big slugger had twelve circuit clouts to his credit. He is also six behind his mark for 1920 for on May 23 of that year he had reached the half-dozen mark against the same St. Louis Browns with Weilman hurling.

Ruth's suspension during the first month of play handicaps him so heavily in the way of setting a new record or even equalling his 59 homers of 1921, that nearly all baseball authorities in the States have given up hope that the big bitter may continue on his record-breaking progress.

Tokio, May 16.—The Japan Lawn Tennis Association has been presented with a silver loving cup by the Nippon Club of New York. The gift to the national association was made when the Japanese players, Shimidzu and Kumagae, participated in the Davis Cup matches last year.

While the trophy was given without any conditions being laid down by the Nippon Club, the desire was expressed that it would be used as the prize for the national singles championship and thus give an added impetus to tennis in this country.

This was an error as in making the new record Good Time was ridden by that particularly competent and always popular Chinese rider, Mr. D. S. Li.

Excerpts from the New York newspapers on D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East"

"The patrons shrieked and roared. They had witnessed the most sensational photoplay climax that ever aroused a cataract of emotions. Enough to raise the hair on a man's head and raise the man out of his seat."—HERALD.

"One cannot enumerate the mulitude of virtues in the film. One should really see the picture. It is unique and a great thing."—AMERICAN.

"To David Wark Griffith, the crown of myrtle, laurel, olive leaves and pearls, for his understanding of Youth and his realization of the poignancy of its pain that has enabled Mr. Griffith to further the art of the silver sheet toward that of Michael Angelo. Dubussy, Valasquez, Maeterlinck and John Keats. He has made motion pictures the eighth Fine Art."—C. BLYTHE SHERWOOD IN "THEATRE WORLD."

"Big thrills and river ice crash. The most thrilling scenes ever shown on the screen. The suspense is overwhelming, partly because the onlookers realize that there is no fake about it. Mr. Griffith produces pictures of startling beauty that suggest famous landscapes painted by masters."—EVENING TELEGRAM.

"It is not often that an audience stands to cheer a motion picture. But it happened at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. The audience rose and cheered. Some of the settings are wonderfully beautiful, the scenes in the snowstorms being most realistic."—JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.

London, May 23.—Powerful testimony to the value of the Entente was given by Mr. Bonar Law at a meeting of the Associated French and British Societies.

Referring to the possibility of France acting separately against Germany, the speaker admitted that one ally was entitled to act alone under the Treaty, but that such a condition of things would play directly into Germany's hands.

Zau's Home-Brew Recipe Gets Official Turndown

Yesterday there appeared at the Mixed Court for retribution Zau Ah-san, charged and convicted for manufacturing and dispensing without license and under alien colors an Oriental home-brew of galvanising and perilous potency.

Zau got enmeshed in the tentacles of the law a week or so ago on Broadway where he was busily hawking his output. The output was done up in quart bottles of carnival aspect which bore in flambuoyant colors the legend "Red Heather Whisky" and according to experts would knock your hat off at twenty yards. Zau was asking 50 cents a quart for the stuff and appeared to be doing a good business. After he had been escorted to the station a sample bottle was handed over to the Municipal laboratories and the rest was gingerly placed in a cool place where the fire risk was nil. Detective Sergeant Balchin then made a trip to Zau's residence to take observations. His findings he reported to the court yesterday.

In the Zau domicile D. S. Balchin found fifteen more bottles of the fluid, a quantity of the giddy labels, several tins of spirits of wine and some white capsules. Regarding these latter he questioned the prisoner. The capsules, Zau explained, were for turning out a less superior brand of liquor. The inferior sort he retailed at 20 to 30 cents a quart, depending on the demand. He realised a profit of only 6 coppers on this sort of lubricant, while on each quart of the real old "Red Heather" he cleared over and above expenses the sum of 10 cents.

Detective Sergeant Balchin had been somewhat puzzled in his search of the premises by not discovering anything in the nature of distilling plant. He had, however, noticed a much begrimed and battered washbowl. This, Zau stated, constituted the distillery.

The laboratory analysis was handed into court. It set forth that the contents of the bottle bore none of the characteristics of genuine whisky. It did, however, have certain elements corresponding to artificial whisky, composed of strong alcohol, water, coloring matter and a dash of whisky essence. A deposit had been found in the bottle. This turned out to be dirt.

Magistrate Li addressed the defendant in solemn fashion. Didn't he know that such a mixture would do people grievous damage and that it was against the law to put dangerous fluids on the market?

Zau was indignant.

"I drank it myself," quoth he, "and I didn't feel any bad effects at all."

Zau went on to explain that he had formely been employed in a wine factory. But he lost his job and having no other training or handicraft to depend upon he thought he would become an unostentatious member of the liquor producers association and earn a little money. It was good liquor, he maintained, and his business hadn't been very extensive and he couldn't see why it should be wound up.

The court had clearer views on the matter and rung in a debit item of $30 for the Zau and Co. accounts besides ordering the demolition of the distilling apparatus and the confiscation of all stocks on hand.

WU TO DONATE X-RAY MACHINE TO HOSPITAL

(China Press Correspondence)

Paotingfu, May 18.—General Wu Pei-fu has shown his appreciation of the heroic work being done by Taylor Memorial Hospital at Paotingfu for the wounded Chihli soldiers by promising to add a new $6,000 X-ray machine to their already splendidly equipped institution. Early Sunday morning of May 14th, General Wu paid a visit to this hospital and took a keen interest in every detail of its management. The X-ray room especially engrossed him and when the metal button of his glove was distinctly revealed through his hand under the X-ray machine, he was much impressed.

The machine, now being used, was lent by the Rockefeller Institute of Peking for the period of the emergency and must soon be returned. With its aid Dr. Charles Lewis, surgeon in charge of the hospital, and his assistants, have handled a hundred cases and have saved an incalculable amount of suffering, making possible operations that would have been futile otherwise. It was later in Wu Pei-fu's tour of inspection, while he was drinking tea in the reception room, that in his usual unobtrusive way he again brought up the subject of the X-ray and told Dr. Lewis that he wished him to purchase a first class machine for their equipment. Although this hospital is equipped to handle but sixty in-patients, it is now effectively caring for over one hundred soldiers at a time.

Wu Pei-fu in his tour, visited the bedside of every wounded man and it was a touching acknowledgment to him to see the drawn faces of the men brighten as their well loved General stood beside them. This man of the hour, who has slept, eaten and fought with his men looked baffled when he saw the agony they were experiencing which he was not allowed to share. Here was a man who will never walk again, another whose arms were gone and still another who was blinded. Some were suffering from what is termed "brush burn", caused by a bullet grazing the spinal column and resulting in a paralysis of the limbs. In fact hardly a type of war's toll of afflictions was missing from the many cases gathered here.

The beds of the ordinary soldiers were placed in large well lighted wards while officers were given a little more privacy in smaller rooms. One of the General's own bodyguard occupies a smaller room and his joy at the General's visit seemed reflected in Wu's face when he made his call.

Taylor Memorial Hospital is a splendid, living tribute to the work of Dr. Lewis as well as a fitting monument to the memory of Dr. George Yardley Taylor, who lost his life in the Boxer Rebellion. The site for the present hospital was given the Presbyterian Mission Board as part of the Boxer indemnity and in 1902 Dr. Lewis took up his life work in the construction and management of the institution which was named in memory of the martyred physician.

Funds for the main building were given by Dr. Taylor's Princeton classmates but the hospital as it stands today may be truly said to be a one-man institution—the result of the tireless labor and foresight of Dr. Lewis. The admiration of foreigners and Chinese alike for this famous surgeon knows no bounds. Tuchun Pao Kwei-ching of Kirin, Manchuria, whose sight Dr. Lewis saved through skilful surgery, caused a huge "pien" or motto board to be made as a tribute to the doctor, with the characters emblazoned in gold, "He Saved My Light". This was presented with befitting ceremony and a substantial contribution for the work of the hospital added.

Dr. J. Hermann Wylie is also a member of the staff who is doing remarkable work for the wounded men. From early until late he is on the job, diagnosing, prescribing and operating and like Dr. Lewis seems in total ignorance of such a thing as an eight hour day. Drs. Chao and Li, surgeons and Drs. Wang and Li, physicians are also staff men who are rendering invaluable service to the Chihli men.

Mr. A. Hermann, the capable business manager is one of the potent forces enabling the hospital to handle with such skill as to routine details the large number of severely wounded men, while Mr. Li Fu-sheng, his right hand man, never knows an idle moment. Two well trained evangelical workers, Messrs. Chu and Di Yu are also enlisted in the work. Part of their time is spent in hospital service and the remainder is devoted to following up discharged patients and rendering important aid in the patients' homes.

Much credit must also be given to Dr. Lewis' nursing staff for the success of his institution. Mrs. Charles Lewis, his wife, is a graduate nurse and has taught the theoretical work in training the Chinese nurses. She has cared for many of the patients in her own home, giving the most effective kind of practical demonstration to her classes.

Miss Marie Rustin, R. N. the head nurse, received her nurse's surgical training in Philadelphia and brought to China such a store of infectious optimism as well as splendid training that her presence in a sick room is one of the best tonics prescribable. Miss M. C. Witmer, R. N. came from the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia and her work for the suffering soldiers has made her quite their idol. They are loud in praise of her ability.

At the present time there are 22 men taking the nurses' training course of four years. This follows in every detail the course of the Nurses Association of China. Three graduates are now with the Peking Union Medical College, another has charge of the nursing staff at the Presbyterian Mission Hospital at Huai Yuan. Many others are engaged in public and private nursing throughout North China.

The Woman's Hospital which shares in the use of Taylor Memorial Hospital's splendid equipment will also benefit from General Wu's generosity. This hospital has the same progressive spirit of its associate Taylor Memorial and boasts of being the first institution in North China to offer a nurses' training course for women.

"Way Down East"

At 9 p.m. last night, in fact at 9:15, I was able to say that I did not like the pictures, or as my American friends would say—the "Movies."

Then three hours elapsed, during which I sat in the Isis Theater, and looked at D. W. Griffith's latest production "Way Down East." It is described as "A simple story of plain people." As a matter of fact it is a magnificent story of great people with big emotions—some of them good, and some of them bad. I have always had an idea that the "Speakies" were infinitely better in every way than the "Movies." I have changed my opinion somewhat.

There is a latitude about the latter that is impossible in the former. The human voice is glorious. There are players who can play upon it as a musician might perform upon a cello or an organ. Every sympathy of which humans are possessed can be called forth when an actor of the calibre of Forbes Robertson brings his wonderful voice to his aid. In "Way Down East" we have an actress whose words we do not hear, and yet her perfectly exquisite portrayal of the part of "Anna Moore" called as loudly to the heartstrings of the crowded folk in the Isis Theater as anything could possibly do.

I have seen many pictures. I have found them, time and time again, a fine tonic for insomnia. Last night I was very much awake all the time. I have never seen a picture which in breadth of conception or care in detail which could compare with it. To say "Way Down East" is magnificent conveys little. But it is magnificent. To say it is gorgeous may very likely tell that it has myriads of people, that it has scores of effects. As a matter of fact the cast is comparatively small in numbers. It is extraordinarily large in talents.

That D. W. Griffith presents the picture is quite sufficient guarantee that the picturing was effective. But after eight or nine parts the audience is little prepared for the wonderful spectacle of an ice flow and its precipitate fall. Scene after scene followed in perfect variety. And every one could have been stopped at any second and the film would have shown a perfect picture.

The story of "Way Down East" is brim full of interest from the rise of the curtain until its final fall. At times tears came to the eyes, and then with the genius of a Lottie Blair Parker these were dispelled in joyous laughter.

One would like to dwell upon the many characters that were so well portrayed in a great cast. There was the old father; there was the sympathetic mother; there was the typical devil in sheep's clothing; there was the handsome hero; there was two or three perfectly delightful character parts, and in fact there was a complete whole that demands the verdict that "Way Down East" is easily the best thing that we have seen in pictures in Way Out In The Far East.

Soochow Mobilises For Drive Against The Pesky Mosquito

(China Press Correspondence)

Soochow, May 23.—Dr. Woodworth, of the Provincial Bureau of Entomology, has just closed a survey of the city of Soochow and made reports to representatives of various organisations on the feasibility of carrying out a campaign against flies and mosquitos.

So favorably were they impressed that at a meeting held Monday afternoon subscriptions were taken to pay the expenses of the campaign, and arrangements made for Dr. Woodworth to send one of his assistants to direct the work. The schools of the city, the Chamber of Commerce, the Educational Association and the Young Men's Christian Association will co-operate, while the Chief of Police has promised to detail as many men as necessary to carry out the program. Headquarters will be established at the City Y.M.C.A. building. Three thousand swatters have been ordered from Nanking as a part of the equipment for this fight.

Britain To Ratify 9 Power Pact Soon

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 22.—In the House of Commons today replying to Mr. L'Estrange Malone, Mr. Austen Chamberlain said that the Nine Power Treaty with regard to China, the China Customs Treaty and the Quadruple Pacific Treaty would be ratified as soon as possible. The British Constitution did not require that they be submitted to the House before ratification. If business permitted there would be an opportunity to discuss the Treaties on the introduction of a bill enabling the Government to carry out her obligations under them.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

May 23, 1922

Spot bar silver was up ¼d. and forward ⅛d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 73⅞ cents, and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged at 445.

With the exception of the Franc rate which was raised to 900, our official quotations here this morning were unchanged from yesterday.

Our market opened on the firm side, business in Sterling at the opening being done at 3-8⅛ for May-June and in Gold Dollars at 82 for the same deliveries. Banks, however, were generally good buyers at these rates, and influenced by them, speculators who at first had been inclined to sell, became buyers.

This buying movement became very strong in the afternoon, with the result that the market became very weak and closed with no sellers of Sterling at better than 3-7⅝ for May and 3-7¼ for June-July deliveries.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars at the close were offering 80⅛ for May and 80¾ for June-July. The market closed weak.

India and China bought silver in London yesterday, and the market there is reported to have closed steady.

New York report their market as easy, with sellers at the official quotation.

Wu Pei-fu Is A Busy Man

BY JOSEF W. HALL

THE life of the conquering hero is not all feasting and joy—at least in the case of General Wu Pei-fu. The observer of his routine at Paotingfu, and especially the men who are required more or less to keep his pace, have full sympathy with his feeling that he has done his share of the job and would like to go home to Loyang to rest. Since, however, there seems to be no one else to carry on the task to completion, General Wu is foregoing his desire for retirement.

Fortunately, although not possessed of a formidable physique, he is gifted with a vitality and endurance altogether beyond that of the ordinary mortal. Food and sleep are things to him to be indulged in when there are no more pressing matters to require attention.

It is not generally realised how numerous are the responsibilities which bear down upon this little man. He is the Inspecting General of the three provinces of Hunan, Hupeh and Shensi, and all administrative affairs of any importance in the province of Hupeh, at least, come to him for final action. He still retains his old post of Vice-Inspecting General of Chihli, Honan and Shantung and since Tsao Kun leaves all matters pertaining to the Inspecting General's office to him he exercises direct military and administrative control over these three provinces. In addition, he is fulfilling the functions of Civil Governor of Chihli Province. He is Generalissimo of armies aggregating 100,000 men and is direct commander of several of the units. He is still fighting a war and is responsible for the strategy connected with the remainder of the campaign. In addition to these varied interests there have devolved on him a few side interests like the reunification of the nation, the formation of a Cabinet, the question of the retention or dismissal of the President and the reconstruction of departments of Finance and Communications.

In spite of his reluctance to take on these things General Wu shows no evidence of incapacity to handle them. He saves a great deal of time and energy by dispensing with all formalities of office. He begins work in his own residence shortly after daybreak. All documents and orders of importance are written with his own hand or dictated and then corrected by him. He reads all his own correspondence. From ten in the morning until seven at night a stream of unannounced interviewers passes through his room in Tsao Kun's foreign residence next to the Yamen, which the old General has given to Wu for headquarters. Each one understands that he must make his business extremely brief and to the point. He is dismissed by a rapid fire decision on the part of the General or perhaps an order to a staff official to go into the matter further. Access to the General is denied to no one who has business.

Although Wu is absolutely in command of his own affairs, he maintains a staff of very efficient men who know their positions and are secure in their several responsibilities. There is no fear on their part of revocation of their orders by their chief. Wu backs his officers even when he himself feels that they are wrong as long as he maintains them in office. If they make too many mistakes he simply removes them. An atmosphere of absolute respect for his commandership and deference for his opinions exists although his staff often privately disagree with his policies and do not hesitate to say so. They have learned, however, that the Little General knows what he is about and usually proves himself right in the end. They therefore carry out his policies wholeheartedly and with a keen interest to see how they may eventuate.

General Wu's business is conducted through two lines of assistants: the military staff which handles army affairs and the so-called political advisers (this term is a mis-nomer) who are responsible for administrative duties and political policies. Among the latter are three shrewd, yet charmingly democratic men who have wide experience and are intimately acquainted with every political development in China since the Revolution.

It is these men: Messrs. Psi, Swen and Pei, who have been given the task of bringing General Wu's plan for reunification and his other nation building policies to a successful issue. None of these men is by nature given to unfounded optimism; yet they are all hopeful of achieving the constitution of a worthy government over a united country within the next year and a half. Mutual to all three at this time is their unbounded disgust with the figurehead of the Peking Government and their unrestrained expression of the worse than worthlessness of "Hsu Tung-hai" as they designate the old President.

Digs Worms By Electricity

When Joe Siegfried, aged eleven, of Kennewick, Wash., starts his electric tickler from three to fourteen big worms wriggle out to the surface between the electrodes, praying to get into the bait can. All Joe has to do is to pick them up.

The boy drives two iron stakes into the ground about two feet apart, says Popular Science, and connects them with the terminals of a hand magneto. As soon as he turns a crank the earth between the stakes is charged with electricity, and the angleworms make a quick move from that vicinity.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis, esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consist in:—
(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly.
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

France Shows Old Spirit

Simonds Finds Peasants Still Proving Heroism In Battle

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.

Paris, April 5 (by mail).—Three years ago, a few weeks after the armistice, I traveled from Ypres to Cambrai along all the Hindenburg line in the midst of a desolation which no words could describe and now I have returned from another trip over much of the same country, through Lens, Arras, Depaume, Peronne and St. Quentin. Again, moreover, there is the same consciousness of the impossibility by words to describe facts, to present in any comprehensible fashion the great human endeavor which is working itself out upon the battle fields whose names were only a few years ago in the mouths of millions of men and women all over the world.

Before me as I write these words are many documents which describe in cold and accurate fashion what has been done, the tons of earth which have been lifted, the number of houses which have been rebuilt, the miles of railway which have been relaid. These are familiar statistics, printed again and again and meaning just nothing. For if you are to understand the north of France, the devastated area, statictics are worthless, they convey nothing of the meaning of the human spirit. And France of the devastated area is today spiritual far more than statistical. It represents not the triumph that is yet to come, but the beginning of the triumph, the supreme revelation of what is unconquerable in the human being.

Take for example Lens. Before the war it was a city of perhaps thirty thousand inhabitants, a grimy coal town, a Scranton of dull, drab monotony, of narrow streets and busy mines. Today it is Cripple Creek superimposed upon Pompeii. Three years ago when I saw it there was left nothing but an unending mass of shell-torn brick, here and there a stray inhabitant had returned to dig amidst the ruins for the family fortune buried when the first flight of 1914 was imposed by the German rush toward Calais, the drive that did not reach its goal.

Today here's a western mining town, a combination of the structures of the boom town of a decade or two ago, and those Roman ruins which the Americans know best in Pompeii and the Frenchman in Algeria. In the center of the town there are only the wooden structures, some supplied by the government, some collected from the material left behind by the armies which have disappeared. But on the edges, block on block in endless procession, rise the new quarters which have been constructed by the coal companies to house their workmen, what we would call model villages.

LOOS IS RESTORED

Climbing the hill which leads to Loos one may look down on that tragic valley and all the landmarks which were memorable in that battle which cost Sir John French his command and Britain so grave a disappointment. Three years ago, when I wandered through the ruins of Loos there was nothing which remotely resembled a human habitation, only fantastic ruins. But today Loos is reborn, restored, a model village with shining red roofs, a beginning, bounded on every side by ruins still untouched, but an authentic sign of what is to come.

Lens, itself, all the region which surrounds it, seems at first glance only a confusion. It is as if some giant had clumsily thrust his foot into an anthill, done endless destruction and passed on, and thereafter had instantly emerged from all the million orifices that army of ants which, undismayed, without hesitation or delay, had undertaken the hopeless task of reconstructing, hopeless, save for the spirit. Indeed, from the air, I can think of no figure which can so accurately describe Northern France, the devastated area, as that figure of the anthill.

When I last saw it there was emptiness, silence. The armies had gone, the people had not yet returned. It was as the German left it, as the armies left it when they moved forward at last in the great Foch advance which terminated at the Rhine, in victory—alas, so far without reward. And now no one can describe the animation, the visible conscious struggle, the new war which no longer destroys, but builds.

In such a visit as mine, made without regard to statistics, it is only here and there a picture which remains. But to take one or two: Everyone has heard of Vimy Ridge and knows, vaguely at least, of all the battles which were fought before Canada, carrying with it in one unit an American flag, surmounted that terrible hill, five years ago. Before, for long years, the battle had raged at the very gates of Arras—thousands of Frenchmen had died to win the Labyrinth.

NO MAN'S LAND IS PLOWED

Today as you travel by motor out of Arras and start on the long climb you see instantly something which is in a sense typical of the whole problem. There was a No Man's Land for years about the ruined villages of Ecurie and Roodincourt. Beyond their ruins the land dips for a moment into a shallow ravine and then climbs. Here was the actual front for three years. And now, on either side, from what was German territory and what was French, the plow has advanced until there is nothing left uncultivated save a few hundred yards of the center of No Man's Land itself.

The statistical maps have laid down a zone, the red zone, where the injuries are so great that reconstruction is next to impossible and the government has abandoned hope. But not the people. Among all the red zone areas none has been more shelled, more destroyed than the Chemin des Dames, yet within a mile of the territory which was the scene of the famous battles about the Fort Malmaison the peasant has dared where the government was afraid, and I saw horses plowing and bringing back to tillage land where three years ago I clambered with difficulty from one vast shell hole to another.

Always it is the reconquest of the land which most impresses the visitor. There is a stretch of road which runs by the bank of the Oise from La Fere to St. Quentin. It is an old stretch of the Hindenburg line. When I passed over it in the spring of 1919 all the German entrenchments were undisturbed. Mile on mile the rusting barbed wire entanglements, the trenches and the concrete "strong points" marked the battle front. Passing again on the very anniversary of the great German offensive of March 21, 1918, I saw not the smallest semblance of war or fortifications. For miles and miles over the rolling plains one could see only plowed and cultivated soil. The victory, the final victory, had here been won.

It is more or less the same everywhere. The peasant had come back to the soil. He has taken the dugouts, the elephant iron which covered the quarters of the troops behind the front line, he has taken anything and everything to make himself a shelter against the bitter winds and the incessant winter rains of this damp north country and, once a shelter has been improvised, has devoted himself to bringing his fields back to production.

HOMES NOT YET BUILT

I do not know how to describe this later battle which he has bought and won, the French peasant. Years ago, at the moment when the German guns were thundering upon Verdun I saw and tried to describe the spirit of the French troops which I saw advancing into that furnace. To me it was an unforgettable experience—and yet, looking upon what the French peasant has wrought in these old fields of battle the later victory means at once the greater and the nobler manifestation of the human spirit.

It is a mistake to say as many do that the devastated area is already rewon for order and for production. What you feel obviously, poignantly and at one time is what has been done and what remains to be done. The roads are finished, the canals, the railways, the factories are rising in the midst of the twisted machinery of past wreckage, above all the land is being won back inch by inch, literally, from chaos. What remains to be built are the homes of the people who are doing the wonderful work which confronts you on every side—this has been left, it cannot be done unless Germany pays.

But always in description it is the human detail that one comes back to. In the region of devastation you will see the men up on the high tablelands silhouetted against the sky at dawn and at dusk tirelessly ploughing. You will see the women, hoe and shovel in hand, at the same task. You will see, again and again, even small children playing, not at the games of children, but with some little hoe or shovel breaking the sod, conquering their tiny but not insignificant patch of French soil.

TRENCH BY TRENCH

The difficulty of describing lies in the difficulty of separating significant details from the whole mass of facts. To visit Arras, St. Quentin or Soissons, old cities with a history, with buildings

Your Health Comes First
Good Health is your most valuable asset;—its preservation should, therefore, receive your most careful consideration. An important point which should always be borne in mind is the fact that a great many forms of ill-health can be traced, directly or indirectly, to disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is wise, therefore, to keep these organs in healthy activity. When they show any signs of derangement let that reliable medicine, Beecham's Pills, be taken at once. Always deal with digestive ailments in time. They are far-reaching in their possibilities of mischief if neglected, as they too often are. And yet it is generally easy to keep fit and well and free from many debilitating ailments by the simple use of memorable in the past, is to renew the impression of the American boom town. One is awakened at dawn by the sound of busy hammers. New buildings, old buildings patched and repatched, everywhere you have the same impression, not of an old civilisation which has been crushed, but of something which, while being old, is still renewing itself with the same spirit which shows itself in every living tree and plant in each succeeding springtime.

If one came to the devastated area for the first time now, with no knowledge or memory of what it had been three years ago, the north of France would still seem a hopeless land of desolation. But if one had seen, first the process of destruction, then the country as the German left it when at last his hour came and the Hindenburg line and all other lines had succumbed, then the meaning of the present condition would be unmistakable. Then one would feel that it was not death, but resurrection.

Today the battle with achieved destruction is like that old battle with the German. There are no gains of miles. There is no war of movement such as we used to talk about and dream of and again and again fail to achieve. Literally France, the devastated area, is being won back trench by trench. The plow and the shovel are advancing from shell hole to shell hole. But now, as it was not then, the advance is steady, never interrupted. You still hear in all the countryside the sound of shells being exploded. For miles and miles the roads are lined with endless rolls of barbed wire. To destroy a single concrete "strong point" is a task of endless proportions. But one by one they disappear.

ONLY PRIMITIVE TOOLS

The fantastic, the stupendous chaos of a destroyed French village can only be perfectly appreciated by those who have seen the fact and witnessed the struggle. And these French peasants who have tackled the job have, in the main, only the most primitive tools. To be sure the French government has done far more than anyone can conceive, far more than is conceded in the stupid and cruel comments which one meets not infrequently in the American press. But it has necessarily confined itself to those things which meant the restoration of production. It is not by machinery, government aid, by anything but the simplest and most rudimentary tools that the greatest task of all has been done, the task of returning the fields to agriculture.

There are fields where the deep shell holes literally touch each other, fields which we all described in the old battle days as resembling the pictures of the moon with its desolate craters. To restore these fields, after all the unexploded shells have been removed, to level each hole, to transport soil, is to perform in a restricted area with a shovel at best a Panama excavation on a small scale. Yet some of the fields which one remembers best because of their condition in the war times have been restored, completely restored. And what has been accomplished gives full proof of what is to be done.

Today hundreds of thousands of French men, women and children are living in wooden barracks supplied by the government, erected beside the ruins of cities and towns whose histories go back to Caesar, whose shell torn churches are still monuments of a noble architecture. They walk literally miles to arrive at their fields and there from dawn to dusk they are working—with what pathetic determination. It is not work, after all, it is the last, the finest and noblest battle of the war and you cannot pass even rapidly through these fields without pausing to do some little reverence to that spirit—which, after all is, I like to believe, the true spirit of France.

VERDUN SPIRIT PERSISTS

You will hear in Paris, as in Rome and London and in Washington, the discussion of world policies, of international interests, questions of national honor and of national pride. But if you will travel for but a few hours in the land of the north, spend but the briefest time in contact with men and women who are struggling with the somberest realities which any race or generation can feel or face, all these questions will seem but remote abstractions, all the problems of politics, domestic or international, will seem not only unreal but stupid beyond words, meaningless and flagrantly unjust to the men and women whom you have met in the devastated area.

I know that there is an impression in America that France, instead of reconstructing her ruins, is waiting alike for German reparation and for American largess. There could be no crueler libel upon the people of the devastated regions. Unless there is a German reparation, unless there is American aid, thousands of them are perforce condemned to live for years in their barracks and their patched ruins. Without aid they cannot rebuild their houses; this is impossible. yet, without aid or with only the smallest help, they have come back from exile, faced a fortune terrible beyond all words to describe and out of that chaos brought a little order, a fraction of comfort and—something like 90 percent of agricultural production.

And to close where I began, the thing which in 1918 Louis Madelin described as the Battle of France, the thing which all of us who saw it marveled at reverently at Verdun, is taking place all over the old battle front. The spirit of France is revealing itself, as it did in all the terrible crises of the war, not in flashes of genius, military or otherwise, but in the slow, steady unconquerable spirit of the little people, the men who love the land, who fought for it, inch by inch, when the invader attacked, who are reconquering it inch by inch now when the invader has gone and left behind him that destruction which was the lasting incarnation of his spirit.

Japan's Envoys Presented 17 Demands At Dairen

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, May 13.—The "Far Eastern Way" has published the complete text of the seventeen demands forwarded by the Japanese delegation at Dairen, including also three secret clauses. The first item is about the conversion of Nikolaievsk into an international port; the second deals with the extension of the rights given to Japanese fishermen and permission for Japanese navigation along the Russian coast; the third concerns the regulation of post and telegraph connections.

The "most favored nation" idea in the fourth demand stipulates the most favored conditions for Japanese citizens and vessels within the territory of the Far Eastern Republic; the fifth stipulates the same principles with regard to customs regulations and tariffs; the sixth deals with the same principles regarding life and property of Japanese citizens; the seventh demands equal rights in trade and industry for Japanese citizens as for of the natives; the eighth deals with the right of entering, travelling and residing in the F. E. R.; the ninth deals with the principle of private property.

WANTS OPEN DOOR

The eleventh runs: "Recognising the principle of 'open-door,' the Far Eastern Republic must abolish the petty restrictions of the right of mining in her territory against Japanese citizens and must never establish them in the future. Likewise, the Far Eastern Republic must grant to Japanese citizens complete freedom of trade, industry and of engaging in handicrafts, putting them on the same footing as her own citizens.

"The Government of the Far Eastern Republic must also grant to the Japanese the right of land-ownership and full freedom of coast and river navigation under the Japanese flag, and takes upon itself task of notifying the Chinese Government about its desire to grant Japan the right of free navigation under Japanese flag in the Sungari River. The present article refers exclusively to Japanese citizens, and the rights granted to them in accordance with it cannot be conferred upon other foreigners."

The twelfth item deals with reciprocal representations, with the rights of envoys, and with the locations of trade consuls.

The thirteenth item reads as follows: "The governments of both contracting parties recognise all treaties and conventions which have ever taken place between the Japanese Government and the Russian Government, and all rights of their respective citizens acquired under these conventions and treaties are valid at the time of signing the present agreement."

WANTS FORTS DESTROYED

The fourteenth item reads: "The Government of the Far Eastern Republic is bound to destroy and, if necessary, to blow up all its fortresses and fortification along the whole sea coast, in the region of Vladivostok and on the border with Korea, and never in the future restore them. The Government of the Far Eastern Republic must take upon itself the obligation not to engage itself in military activities in the regions adjacent to Korea and Manchuria.

"It must recognise the official residence and travelling of special Japanese missions and individuals and military officials throughout the territory of the Far Eastern Republic. The Government of the Far Eastern Republic is bound never to keep any military fleet in the Pacific and to destroy that existing already."

The fifteenth item reads: "At the settlement of the Nikolaievsk question, the Government of the Far Eastern Republic is obliged to turn over to the Japanese Government the northern part of the Saghalien Island for a thirty years' leasehold as compensation for the indemnities of Japanese citizens during the Nikolaievsk events." The sixteenth and seventeenth items refer to the order and process of ratification of the present agreement.

The secret clauses are: 1. "In case of an armed clash between Japan and a third Power, the Government of the Far Eastern Republic is bound to observe strict neutrality." 2. "The Japanese Government will withdraw its troops from the Maritime Province according to its own judgment and within a period which it will find necessary and convenient for itself." 3. The evacuation of Saghalien Province by Japanese troops will take place after the actual putting into effect of the lease of the northern part of Saghalieh Island under the conditions laid down in the fifteenth item of the present agreement."
